ACCUSED MAN BRINGS SUIT

SEEKS $50,000 FOR DAMAGES RESULT OF
CHARGE OF BRIBERY

Says Reputation Was
"Ruined"; Highway
Probe Is Shaken

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Asserting that his reputation was "ruined," Clyde J. Knisley of Columbus, former federal project engineer for the state highway department, today filed suit in the Franklin County common pleas court for $50,000 damages against State Senator David Lorbach (R) of Cincinnati, chairman of the senate highway investigating committee.

Knisley's suit was based on charges attributed to Lorbach that he (Knisley) sought to interest the state senator in $250,000 "to retire from an investigation of the state highway department."

The petition filed by Knisley claimed that on August 25, 1931, Lorbach, in the presence of different persons and newspaper reporters, stated that the plaintiff represented to him that he represented certain material men and contractors "interested in state highway contracts," and asked if he would be interested in $250,000 to retire from the senatorial investigation of the highway department.

Knisley, who was represented by former State Senator Paul M. Herbert of Columbus, in the suit, asserted that his "reputation was ruined" and that he was "questioned" by his employers. Knisley is real estate examiner for the state tax commission.

Knisley's suit tossed a bomb into today's meeting of the investigating committee, to which Knisley was summoned for questioning about the alleged bribe offer by Lorbach.

The action was filed just as the committee, reported to be torn with dissension as a result of Lorbach's charge, was gathering for a "show-down" meeting.

Republican members, expressing their doubt as to the wish of anybody to bribe the committee, had previously declared that they would demand their chairman submit some proof of his charges.

Informed of the suit, Lorbach intimated he believed it was filed in an attempt to halt the investigation which he started in the senate several months ago.

"I'm not afraid of this suit," he said. "A $50,000 slander suit will not stop this investigation when the interests of the state and the citizens of Ohio are at stake."

Lindberghs Enjoy
Jap Summer Resort

TOKYO, Sept. 1.—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh got a taste of what life is like at Jap summer resort today at Karuizawa, where they were the guests of Ambassador W. Cameron Forbes at his summer residence.

Japan's official welcome to the flyers came to an end last night with the dinner given at his residence by Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki.

The invitations had read "to meet Mrs. Lindbergh and her husband" and after the dinner Colonel Lindbergh chuckled, "it was Anne's party all right."

Mrs. Lindbergh was kept busy answering questions about her father, Senator Dwight Morrow.

PLANE SPEED DASH
AGAIN POSTPONED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 1.—For the second time the speed dash to the national air races from here to Cleveland was postponed today, this time because of unfavorable weather reports from the Middle West.

According to present plans the speed dash will take off early Wednesday morning, intending to land in Cleveland that evening.

Added entrants to the $15,000 event caused the first delay, the contestants waiting for James Goodwin Hall, New York and Beeler Blevins, Atlanta, Ga. Others entered are James H. Doolittle, Harold S. Johnson, Capt. Ira C. Baker, Lou Reichers, and Walter J. Hunter.

SECRETARY ON JOB

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Carl Smith of Kenton, today assumed his new duties as secretary to Governor George White. He succeeded Al C. Crouse, who has returned to his home in Cincinnati to again serve as chief probation officer of the Hamilton county court of domestic relations.

ARMY FLYERS CLAIM SPOTLIGHT AT RACES WITH HUGE PROGRAM

FAMED NOVELIST IS TAKEN BY DEATH

SIR HALL CAINE

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Sept. 1.—Messages of sympathy from many parts of the world poured in today on Lady Caine, whose famous husband, Sir Hall Caine, died last night here at his home, Greeba Castle.

Caine, last of the Victorian novelists, succumbed shortly before midnight to a combination of heart trouble and congestion of the lungs at the age of 78. With him at the time of his death were his wife and two sons, Ralph Hall Caine and Derwent Hall Caine. He had been confined to his bed for only a week.

COMET MOST DARING
FLYING STUNT SEEN
AT NATIONAL RACES

Bold Flyers Exhibit Blazing
Plane To Thrill
Crowds

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 1.—The slickest thing they've turned out for this year's air races thus far, in and out loopers included, is what they call a comet.

It happens every night as part of the fireworks of the races, and last night the passengers on the incoming Washington-Cleveland airliner had an opportunity to see it from above. If their opinion is worth anything, the comet has got all the other flying tricks beat a mile.

Put simply, the comet is a stunt in which sky writing is done at night with a plane on fire. Actually the fire doesn't burn the plane, nor the pilot—but one little slip and it would. From the ground the performance is simply an awe inspiring spectacle. From the air an opportunity is provided to see just how skillful must be the pilot who steers his stubby, fast pursuit plane through barrel rolls, loops and long, breath-taking dives with a big ball of fire beneath the wings.

One stall, and the sizzling blaze which streams out behind in a long, fiery tail, would whip upward into the cloth fabric of the wing, and puff a ten thousand dollar fighting plane would be so much junk. And unless he could get over the side and pull his parachute in time to avoid a gasoline explosion, a pilot who couldn't replace would be hurtle to earth, a mass of charred flesh.

The "comet" is provided by the army air corps. It is a pursuit plane equipped with thirty-six magnesium flares attached under the wings, eighteen on each side. When an electric switch sets off the flares the ship must be moving fast and forward, or else! But it's all in a day's work with the pilots, and tonight above the air race field, ten thousand spectators are holding their breath, watching a young lieutenant ripple a lighted, zigzag path across the sky, ending in a flaming golden circle which lights up the country for miles around.

When going full blast, the "comet" generates 2,875,000 candlepower of light, more than four or five ordinary searchlights.

There are five daredevil army pilots who are "taking turns" at this business of flying a comet. They are Captain St. Clair Street, Lieut. J. C. Corkille, Lieut. J. E. Parker, Lieut. Clement McMullen and Lieut. H. G. Crocker.

Seventy-Two Planes In Formation; Women
In Speed Dash

MUNICIPAL AIRPORT,
CLEVELAND, Sept. 1.—

Carded for a mass formation rarely witnessed by Mr. Average Spectator, the United States army today took the center of the stage as the headliner on the national air races program which also included a third scheduled meeting between the feminine speedsters, Phoebe Omlie and Mae Haizlip, in a woman's straightaway speed dash.

Seventy-two light fighting planes comprising the entire first pursuit group from Selfridge Field, Mich., were to inaugurate the army day program this afternoon by swooping down on the airport in battle maneuvers. It was to be the largest group of planes in the air at any one time during the races.

Aside from the pursuit group formation flight which was expected to furnish the biggest thrill of the program today, the army was to present its famous "three turtles" as an added attraction. This unit of three speed scout ships plays "follow the leader" through a maze of difficult maneuvers which are instituted by the leader without giving signals to the other pilots who must follow.

The third meeting of the Memphis girl pilot and her Missouri satellite this afternoon was to come in the women's one-mile speed event for planes of 510-cubic inch piston displacement. One of the racers will establish a national air races speed record which will be the goal for competition at future races. Mrs. Omlie was piloting her trim yellow monoplane in which she has won three women's events of the races thus far.

Other races on today's program were a straightaway speed dash for men in planes of 650 cubic inches and qualifying flights by planes entered in the Thompson and Aero trophy dashes, outstanding men's and women's speed events of the entire races. Aero qualifiers must make 140 miles per hour and Thompson entrants 175 miles per hour.

WILL RE-OPEN TEXAS FIELDS

KILGORE, TEXAS, Sept. 1.—Operators in the east Texas oil fields, from which not a drop of oil has been produced since August 16, made preparations today to reopen their wells late today or tomorrow for curtailed production.

A new prorator order has been drawn up by the state railroad commission and expected to be effective within the next twenty-four hours. When it is issued, Governor Ross Sterling is expected to immediately revise the martial law order which closed the field, and allow resumption of production under orders of the commission.

YOUTH SOUGHT IN DEATH OF DOCTOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Police today sought a tall youth known only as "Jack" for questioning in the death of Dr. William Frederick Hurst, 30, physician, formerly of Syracuse.

Dr. Hurst was found dead in his apartment Monday, his hands tied behind his back with a towel.

Investigators said that Dr. Hurst, intoxicated, had insisted on leaving his apartment half-dressed and that "Jack" on leaving him early Sunday, had tied his hands to prevent him going into the street again.

MISSSES VICTIM SO MAN SHOTS SELF

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Sept. 1.—Disgusted when he missed his intended victim three times firing a shotgun at close range, C. C. Toothman, 80, tried his aim on himself and found his mark. He was badly mutilated by the self-inflicted charge of buckshot.

Toothman had intended to kill Charles Beadle because of differences over an oil lease, authorities said today. He was unable to hit his intended victim, however, and turned the weapon on himself.

URGES USE OF AD SPACE

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—"In times of depression it would be better to double our advertising program," Adolphe A. Lehne of Columbus, told delegates attending the convention of the Ohio Retail Jewelers' Association which ends here today.

Among other prominent speakers during the convention sessions were James Aylward of Bucyrus, treasurer of the organization; A. C. Hutchinson of Akron, secretary; Raymond Ray of Coshocton, and Earl Chamberlain of Akron.

WHAT DEPRESSION? FAIR ATTENDANCE NEARS NEW RECORD

Opening Day Crowd
Large; Squabble
Mars First Day

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Depression or no depression, attendance at the eighty-first Ohio State Fair was reported to be moving toward a record total today.

Graced by fair, cool weather, the fair attracted a crowd of 43,453 yesterday, the opening day of the state's exhibition. Last year's opening day attendance was 41,871.

Highlights of today's program, which was expected to draw as big or even bigger crowds than yesterday, were the international horse-pulling contest, a halt and fly-casting tournament, a "million-dollar livestock parade," a night horse show and a concert by the All-Ohio High School Band.

Dissension over the administration of ticket selling and concessions threatened to put a crimp in the fair's operations yesterday. The squabble resulted in State Director of Agriculture I. S. Guthrey discharging his superintendent of ticket sales and his refusal to recognize a contract for a large concession, which lacked his signature.

Lamar Funston, the ousted superintendent, was charged with employing ticket sellers and takers of his own choice and refusing to employ those named by the director. William J. Hiller of Columbus was chosen to replace Funston.

D. D. Murphy, head of a group of thirty-five shows and riding devices, said Guthrey refused to allow him the space he had arranged for in a transaction with Charles M. Beer of Ashland, fair manager. Murphy said Guthrey refused to honor the contract because it did not bear his signature.

Among the awards made at the fair on opening day were: Potatoe show—Irish Cobbler; John Scofield of Somerset, $5; Harry Flesher of Fleming, $4; Bernard McCullough of Mt. Perry, $3. Early Ohio: Berlin Valentine of Bloomville, $5; Raymond Reinhardt of Canal Winchester, $3; Lawrence Dink of Hilliards, $3.

Russell Rural: Vaughn Arnold of Hunteburg, $5; Keith Clark of Windsor, $4; William Grant of Bellville, $3.

Junior fair awards included: Home Economics—Eunice Jones of Findlay, first $25; Mary Ryan of West Liberty, second, $20; Agnes Cooper of La Rue, seventh, $15; Margaret Ruvaldt of Sunbury, eleventh, $11; Dorothy Fitzgerald of Bloomville, thirteenth, $10.

Vocational Agriculture—P. J. Ruble of Grove City, first, $35; L. B. Fidler of Canal Winchester, second, $20; Sunbury High School, third, $25; LaRue Public School, fourth, $15.

Steer Exhibits—Class 45: Robert C. Hall of Peoria, $10; Kenneth McClarran of Harveysburg, $10; Clinton Reynolds of Blanchester, $10; Charles Tims of Radnor, $8; Carl L. McElroy of Peoria, $8 and Ronald McClarran of Harveysburg, $8.

Steer Exhibits—Class 44: Kenneth Smith of Woodstock, $10; grand champion of both classes; Robert Tims of Radnor, $10; Robert Reynolds of Blanchester, $10; Charles Tims of Radnor, $8; Carl L. McElroy of Peoria, $8 and Ronald McClarran of Harveysburg, $8.

The grand prairie juvenile grange, from Marion County, won first prize of $50, for the best exhibit in the juvenile grange in the fair. Seloto juvenile Grange from Pickaway County was sixth.

INEZ NORTON WILL RETURN TO STAGE

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Inez Norton, former Broadway star and sweetheart of the slain Arnold Rothstein, plans to return to the stage she announced today.

Under the name of "Miss Storey," Miss Norton showed her legs yesterday and then flew to Los Angeles, where she expected to make two talking pictures in Hollywood before returning to the stage.

STILL HICCOUGHS

PORTSMOUTH, O., Sept. 1.—Still suffering despite seven operations, Geraldine Abrahams, 18-year old New Boston high school student, was to undergo another operation today to cure hiccoughs. The operation will be her thirteenth in the last twelve months.

LATEST SCENES FROM POWERS MURDER FARM

Here are the latest scenes from the "murder farm" of Harry Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, near Clarksburg, W. Va., where the man who corresponded with some 150 women in all parts of the country described to police how he murdered two women and the three children of one, for their money.

Upper left, closeup of Powers' garage where the slayings took place; upper right, Mrs. Doris Pressler of Lenox, W. Va., whose body was the fifth to be dug up near the garage; lower left, a policeman with some of the scores of photographs of women with whom Powers had corresponded; lower right, Mrs. Harry Powers, wife of the slayer, who has been released.

FAG SMOKERS COMPLAIN

New Cigarette Tax Irks Users As They Begin Making "Great Sacrifice"

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—The "great sacrifice" of Ohio's cigarette-smoking public, by a penny here and a penny there will be used to improve state welfare institutions and bolster the state's flattened purse, started today.

To the tune of charges by its enemies that it is the worst of "nuisance taxes," the new law, levying a tax of one cent on every cigarette, went into effect promptly at midnight.

Around every cigarette stand that stayed open that late were little knots of men making an eleventh-hour scramble to buy tax-free cigarettes.

On the lips of many were open threats to buy "bootleg" cigarettes, and escape the tax.

The occasional suggestion from one of the group that the tax is for a worthy cause and that the state's indigent, criminal and mentally ill will have more sunlight and fire-proof living quarters as a result proved generally unpopular.

Besides pointing out that, in their opinion, anybody but the cigarette smoker should have borne the expense of the needed improvements, the angrier objectors said there is a paradox in the law.

Retailers and wholesalers were given reductions in license fees, indicating that scores of new retailers and wholesalers will go into business, when, according to the objectors, there will be less business because the public will go back to pipes and home-rolled cigarettes.

The forty-four inspectors who will visit tobacco stores and cigarette stands to see that all packages bear the big red stamp will commence work within a few days.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL CONSIDERS ECONOMIC PROBLEM

GENEVA, Sept. 1.—With the question of Europe's economic rehabilitation uppermost in the minds of the delegates, the sixty-fourth session of the League of Nations Council opened here today.

The delegates were called to order by Alejandro Lerroux, minister of foreign affairs in the new Spanish republican cabinet and president of the council.

The routine matters on the agenda included the French application for withdrawal of its mandate over Syria as well as an attempt by Britain to drop its mandate over Iraq. Both withdrawals were believed prompted by the heavy "upkeep" of these outlying mandates.

While the council swung into its consideration of problems on the agenda, considerable discussion ensued in the corridors over the mooted Austro-German customs union.

Decision of the Hague tribunal on the legality of the projected pact is expected to be handed down today or tomorrow. Well-informed league circles incline to the opinion that the tribunal will rule that although the proposed pact does not violate the spirit or letter of the treaty of Versailles, it disagrees with the Geneva protocols of 1922, in which Austria promised not to compromise her economic independence.

In anticipation of such a decision, it was expected Dr. Johann Schober, Austrian foreign minister, would announce Austria's voluntary renunciation of the pact.

The first appointment announced by the council today was that of Norman Davis, New York banker and capitalist, as a member of the League of Nations financial committee, which is an intermediary between borrowing and lending nations. Davis, formerly financial adviser to the late President Wilson, has long been prominent in league affairs.

BISHOPRIC FOR YALE MAN

HARTFORD, Conn. — When a diocesan convention of the Episcopal Church in Connecticut is held here on September 9, it is expected that the Rev. Dr. Elmore M. McKee, of Buffalo, will be elected bishop coadjutor. Dr. McKee, a Yale man, was the first Yale pastor, taking this office after compulsory chapel was abolished at Yale in 1927. He is to assist Rt. Rev. E. Campion Acheson, of Middletown.

LEARN POST MORTEM INDICATED VICTIM MET NATURAL DEATH

Five Held Pending Coroner's Verdict; Wounds Are Minor

Authorities investigating circumstances of the death of Mrs. Mae Stella Littler, 39, whose nude body was found on the banks of Shawnee Creek at the edge of the northwest corporate limits of Xenia late Monday morning, were understood Tuesday to have discarded their first theory that the woman was murdered.

A report of a post mortem examination of the body conducted by two Xenia physicians, Drs. T. F. Myler and R. R. McClellan, Monday, was being awaited Tuesday by Coroner R. L. Haines.

Until this report is received and until a further inquiry into the case has been made, the coroner indicated he would not give an official verdict in the death.

The report of the autopsy is expected to show the woman did not die of external injuries but of sudden heart disease or some natural cause. The fact she had allegedly been drinking and had previously participated in a bay rum or canned heat party may have had a bearing upon her death, investigators believe. Exposure may also have been a contributing factor.

Of the seventeen suspects rounded up by authorities Monday for questioning, all but five were released from custody that night. The five still in custody, held for further questioning Tuesday, include Howard "Big Jug" Littler, 36, the woman's husband.

Prosecuting Attorney Marcus McCallister disclosed Tuesday that an examination had shown no marks of violence on the body sufficiently serious to have resulted in death. A dozen minor knife wounds were believed to have been inflicted by a pocketknife discovered at the spot where the body was found but none would have proved fatal, authorities say. The head and body bore bruises none of which was deemed severe.

The locally there the body was discovered by three small boys at Lenox, W. Va., whose body was the fifth to be dug up near the garage; lower left, a policeman with some of the scores of photographs of women with whom Powers had corresponded; lower right, Mrs. Harry Powers, wife of the slayer, who has been released.

Inquest Plans

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Sept. 1.—While the machinery of the law was thrown into high gear to send quickly to the gallows Harry Powers, alias Cornelius Pierson, mail order murderer, his name was linked today with the slaying of pretty Mary Baker of Washington, D. C. Her body was found in a ditch near Arlington Cemetery on April 30, 1930.

Washington investigators requested City Detective Carl Southern, of Clarksburg, to grill the matrimonial agency butcher regarding his knowledge of the case. International News Service learned today Powers had visited Washington frequently in the past two years.

Two of the three witnesses in the capital who saw a man climb into an automobile with Miss Baker, when she went for her last ride were reported to have declared Powers from his pictures resembled the escort of the girl.

"I will do all in my power but Powers has stopped talking," said Detective Southern.

In the trunk belonging to Powers a box of 32 calibre bullets were found. There were three bullets of the same calibre in the body of Mary Baker.

A ballistic expert was expected to compare the two sets of bullets. Meanwhile authorities stopped digging for further bodies in the vicinity and concentrated their efforts on building an "iron-clad" case against the love racketeer.

Speeding the expected march of Powers to the hangman's noose, Coroner Leroy C. Goff, ordered an inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Asta Elcher, Park Ridge, Ill., widow Mrs. Dorothy Lemke, another widow from Northboro Mass., and the three children of Mrs. Elcher. These were the known toll to date of the Powers' correspondence "school of murder."

A special session of court for the murder arraignment of Powers was planned with the return here today of Judge Southern from vacation.

Although the marks of twenty-five bullets were found, no one was hurt as bystanders scurried for sheltering doorways.

GUNMEN SPRAY
SHOT IN STORE

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Three riot squads of Brooklyn police chased six gunmen today after they sprayed a woman's wear store with bullets. The gunmen fired their shots from a big automobile and shot women in the shop narrowly escaped death. Two other squads later joined the pursuit but the gunmen escaped.

A pool hall next door to the store was believed to be a hangout of gangsters and the real target of the gunmen. Hundreds of persons fled in the street as the gangsters shelled the place shortly before midnight.

Although the marks of twenty-five bullets were found, no one was hurt as bystanders scurried for sheltering doorways.

powered homemade ship, "Pete" which was the sensation of last year's races, was to make his initial appearance in the 1931 races today in the men's free-for-all over thirty miles. He was expected to encounter "considerable" competition from at least two other entrants, John Livingston of Aurora, Ill., and Lowell Bayles, Springfield, Mass., noted stunt flyers.

Official announcement that Mrs. Omlie was sweepstakes and women's division winner of the handicap derby from Santa Monica which ended Sunday, was made by contest officials today. She had a handicap rating score of 109.19 per cent which was more than ten per cent better than Martie Bowman, Glendale, Cal., and Miss Halzlip who were nearly tied for second. The score was almost six points higher than that of D. C. Warren, San Francisco, men's division winner.

Gladys O'Donnell, Long Beach, Cal., who was reported dissatisfied with her handicap rating, today was believed to have dropped her intended action of protesting the derby results.

Two women's thirty-mile speed dashes in which Mrs. Omlie and Miss Halzlip flashed around the five-mile course almost wing to wing, thrilled spectators at the third day's races which marked the actual start of major competitive events. In each event, Mrs. Omlie nosed her plane over the home pylon less than 100 feet in front of her Missouri rival.

Livingston, the Illinois stunter, was nearly a full lap ahead of his nearest rival in winning the men's free-for-all 30-mile event for planes of 510 cubic inches. His average time was 147.7 miles per hour the fastest of the five races yesterday, all of which were set for smaller planes.

Duke Muller, Niles, Mich., and H. A. Spear, Cincinnati, won the other two men's races, featuring tiny 115 cubic inch planes of about fifty or seventy-five horsepower.

XENIAN IS AWARDED ELECTRICAL WORK ON BEAVER SCHOOL

Award of an electrical contract to Clarence Harner, Xenia electrician, in connection with the construction of the new $180,000 centralized township school was made by the Beaver Creek Twp. school board Monday night.

The successful bid amounted to between $11,000 and $12,000. The board required Harner and his closest competitor to re-submit bids.

Bacon and Saunders, Dayton firm awarded the plumbing contract a week ago, was also authorized to install a fresh water pump in the building to be erected. The air compression device will pump water straight from the wells to drinking fountains.

The general contract was awarded recently to the Howard Construction Co., Columbus, and the board will meet again Tuesday night to decide upon the type of heating system to be installed. Various systems, including hot air and steam, are under consideration, and eight or nine bids were received.

PLAN TO INSTALL OFFICERS JOINTLY

Officers of the Auxiliary of Foody Post, American Legion, will be elected September 14, it is announced. Mrs. Guy Toms is now president of the organization. Foody Post will elect officers Tuesday night and the officers of both organizations will be installed at a joint ceremony October 6 when Paul M. Herbert, new state commander, is expected to conduct the program.

JUST HOME WORK!

JUST because you are a fireman is no reason that there cannot be a fire at your house!
This was the case Monday evening when firemen answered an alarm to the home of William Hanifan, city fireman, 120 S. Columbus St., at 9:30 o'clock. A large and turpentine mixture that Mrs. Hanifan was heating on the stove caught fire but no damage resulted. The alarm was No. 74 for 1931.

TWENTY-ONE MORE CANDIDATES ENTER NOVEMBER CONTEST

Nominating petitions of twenty-one more candidates for village, township and school board offices, subject to the November elections, were filed with the board of elections Saturday and Monday.

A blanket slate of candidates for municipal offices at Jamestown was submitted. The ticket follows: W. E. Reid for mayor, A. Y. Whitehead for clerk, C. W. Moorman for treasurer, Thomas Kepler for marshal, N. N. Hunter, A. L. Smith, A. J. Barnes, A. J. Christopher, W. A. Carpenter and W. A. Thomas for council. Harley Badgley also filed a separate petition for the job of marshal. Kepler is the present marshal.

Other candidates to file included: W. T. Naragon for mayor of Osborn; F. W. Johnson, C. C. Martin and M. W. Ault for Miami Twp. trustees; Towne Carlisle for Miami Twp. clerk; J. E. Lewis for Ross Twp. school board; S. K. Turnbull for Ross Twp. trustee; F. M. Williams for Sugar Creek Twp. constable; F. M. Buckwalter for Caesar Creek Twp. school board; Arthur M. Stewart for Beaver Creek Twp. school board.

Earl Short, clerk of the election board, reminds candidates that their nominating petitions must bear their signature of acceptance of candidacy. The committee of five electors sponsoring the nominating petitions must also sign the petitions to make them legal.

The time for filing petitions expires at 6:30 p. m. September 4.

BUILDING AND LOAN MEN TO MEET HERE

P.A. rolls easy and stays put!

AM I sold on Prince Albert for home-rolled cigarettes? Ask me another! I like P.A.'s fragrance. And I like the way P.A. rolls, it rolls easy and stays put. But the big point in P.A.'s favor is its marvelous taste. Cool as a summons to serve on the jury. Sweet as the news that you have been excused. Mild and mellow beyond description, but with that full, rich tobacco-body that satisfies your smoke-hunger to the absolute limit. Try rolling 'em with P.A. Try this tobacco in your pipe, also.

PRINCE ALBERT

GOOD TOBACCO DESERVES GOOD PAPER. Roll 'em with OCB and you have the world's best. These papers are made in France, expressly for R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, at the famous Boller's factories, for more than a hundred years makers of the world's finest cigarette-papers. OCB book of 150 leaves, 5¢—and you never spent a nickel that meant more in quality

Thirty-Five Women At Club Party Monday

THIRTY-FIVE women of the Xenia Country Club formed one large group and spent a pleasant morning at the club Monday. There had been no special parties planned for the day. Bridge was enjoyed throughout the morning and the following were presented:

APPROACHING MARRIAGE IS BEING ANNOUNCED.

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Barbara Jenkinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Jenkinson, 281 Chestnut St., this city, to Mr. John H. Hanley, Champaign, Ill., is being made by the bride's parents. The wedding will take place at the home of the bride Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock and following their marriage the couple will reside in Champaign.

Mr. Hanley is assistant instructor in floriculture at the University of Illinois at Champaign. Miss Jenkinson has resided in Xenia only a short time coming here from Chicago with her parents to make her home with her uncle, Mr. Henry J. Reinhardt.

CLIVER-HUFF NUPTIALS PERFORMED IN DAYTON.

Mr. and Mrs. Adam Huff, Clifton, are announcing the marriage of their daughter, Miss Frances Walton Huff, to Mr. Wesley E. Cliver, Cincinnati, which was solemnized Saturday afternoon at the manse of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, Dayton. Their marriage came as a surprise to the bride's many friends in Clifton. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cliver have been employed in the Dayton office of the Ohio Bell telephone Co. for the past eighteen months. Mrs. Cliver is a graduate of Springfield Business College. After October 1 the couple will be at home at San Antonio, Tex., where Mr. Cliver has been transferred by the telephone company.

MISSIONARY GROUP HAS MEETING FRIDAY

An interesting paper on missionary work in the West Indies was read by Mrs. A. S. Frazier as a main feature of the program at a meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of the First U. P. Church in the Bible School room of the church Friday afternoon. The meeting opened with a devotional period conducted by Mrs. J. G. Dixon. Following Mrs. Frazier's paper a piano solo was played by Miss Marjorie Street. An interesting talk was given by Miss Virginia Patterson, missionary to Egypt. Mrs. John P. White closed the meeting with prayer.

RECENT BRIDE IS HONORED MONDAY

Mrs. George Herr (Esther Ford), E. Second St., a recent bride, was guest of honor at a party given by her sister, Mrs. Elmer Shaffer, Chestnut St., Monday evening. The party was in the form of a miscellaneous shower and Mrs. Herr received a number of lovely gifts. Games and contests were enjoyed by the eighteen guests during the evening and later a refreshment course was served by Mrs. Shaffer.

MISS HAYWARD IS HONORED AT DINNER.

Miss Mary Hayward, W. Second St., who will leave Wednesday to enter nurses' training school at White Cross Hospital, Columbus, was guest of honor at a dinner party at the Iron Lantern Saturday evening. The party was given by Miss Evaline Evans and eight guests attended. A four course dinner was served, the table being attractively decorated with bouquets of summer flowers.

ENTERTAINS FOR OUT-OF-TOWN GUEST

For the pleasure of Mrs. Robert Norton (Dorothy Armstrong), Chatham, N. J., who is visiting relatives here, Mrs. C. O. Nybladh was hostess to a group of friends at a delightful bridge party at her home on N. King St., Saturday afternoon. Guests for six tables were entertained and following the games a refreshment course was served by Mrs. Nybladh.

COUPLE MARRIED AT PARSONAGE HERE

Mr. John C. Sowle and Miss Alice M. Myers, both of Dayton, were united in marriage at the parsonage of the First M. E. Church, W. Market St., Monday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. W. N. Shank performed the single ring service. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sowle were formerly from Covington, Ky., and that is where they will reside following a lake trip.

Mrs. Leroy Bennett and sister of Lithopolis, O., will arrive here Wednesday, to spend the remainder of the week with Mrs. Bennett's cousin, Mrs. W. F. Trader, N. King St.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Fetz, N. King St., arrived home Tuesday morning after enjoying a two weeks' boat trip on Lake Superior. They also spent some time in Port Arthur, Canada and visited in Duluth, Minn.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scramling have moved from Florence St. to Fayette St.

The twenty-second annual reunion of the former Beaver grade school will be held on the Beaver Church grounds Labor Day. A picnic will be enjoyed at noon and a program will be presented in the afternoon. All former pupils or interested persons are invited to attend.

Miss Pauline Woods, Upper Bellbrook Pike, is spending several days as the guest of Mrs. Walter L. Dean, W. Market St.

The meeting of the Cedrine Club which was to have been held Thursday has been postponed until Thursday, September 10 and will be held at the home of Mrs. Raymond Bull, Stevenson Road.

Mrs. Charles Redmond and small son, Buddy, of Cleveland, are spending this week visiting relatives here.

prizes: Mrs. Steele Poague, first and Mrs. C. E. Arbogust, second. Luncheon was served at 1 o'clock with Mrs. Findley M. Torrence as chairman of the committee. Her assistants for the day were Mrs. Reed Madden, Mrs. C. S. Frazier, Mrs. R. D. Adair, Miss Jane Harner and Miss Anita Cherry.

Among out-of-town guests present at the club Monday were Mrs. R. W. Moore, Baltimore, Md., who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Elbert Babb; Mrs. Joseph Little, Indianapolis; Mrs. Amy Anderson, Cleveland, guests of Mrs. Mary M. Meredith.

Mr. Christopher Smith, Denver, Colo., arrived here Tuesday for a visit with his brother, Mr. John W. Smith, Mr. Tabor and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Virginia Smith, Jamestown. Mr. Smith left Ohio fifty-one years ago and this is his first visit here since then. He expects to spend some time with relatives and friends in this vicinity before returning to Colorado.

Reservations for supper at the Xenia Country Club Wednesday evening are to be made before 9 a. m. Wednesday with Mrs. Findley M. Torrence, chairman for this week.

Mr. and Mrs. James K. Hall, Flynn Apts., W. Second St., have returned home after spending a week in Loveland, O., with Mr. and Mrs. Chester V. Chism, former residents of this city.

Dr. and Mrs. William V. Houston (Milder White) and daughter, Ann, Pasadena, Calif., left by motor for that city Tuesday morning after a visit with Mrs. Houston's mother, Mrs. John P. White, E. Second St. Dr. and Mrs. Houston recently returned from Europe where Dr. Houston did research work. Dr. Houston is research professor for the California School of Technology. Miss Ruth White, Mrs. Houston's sister, accompanied them to Pasadena to spend several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Babb, east of Paintersville, entertained as their guests at dinner Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. David Devos and Mr. and Mrs. William Devos, near Paintersville and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Woods and family, near Xenia.

The Jamestown Grange will take the Greene County traveling gavel to Miami Grange, Yellow Springs Friday evening. It is expected that members of the other subordinate Granges in the county will attend the meeting.

Mrs. C. O. Nybladh and Martha Jane Anderson, N. King St., are spending several days with Mrs. Nybladh's brother-in-law, Dr. Thor Nybladh, Cardington, O.

Mr. and Mrs. John Combs, near Jamestown and Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw and granddaughter, Ruth Gorman, this city, motored to Troy Sunday and enjoyed a picnic there.

Miss Thelma Chittick, teacher in the Union City, Ind. schools, and Miss Margaret Martin, teacher in the Pittsburgh, Pa. schools, have returned to their homes after a visit with Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Conklin, 24 E. Church St.

Messrs. Oliver Stewart and Elmer Meyer, St. Louis, Mo., spent the week end here as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Scramling, Fayette St. Mr. Stewart and Mrs. Scramling are cousins.

The Missionary Society of the United Brethren Church will meet at the church Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Annual reunion of the Williams family will be held at Pelee's Park, two miles north of Wilmington on the Port William Pike, Sunday. It is announced by Mr. Russell Dunlap, secretary of the reunion association.

Mrs. William Hipshre and son, Ralph, Springfield, have returned home after spending two days with Mrs. Joseph Pinkbone, Goes Station.

Mr. Kenneth M. Conklin, son of Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Conklin, 24 E. Church St., has returned to the Kirkville School of Osteopathy at Kirkville, Mo., after a vacation here.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Cross and Mr. C. W. Whitmer, Hill St., returned home Saturday night after a 6,000-mile automobile trip. They went from here to Yellowstone National Park and then to Canada where they visited points of interest. They returned home by the way of Washington D. C.

Prayer meeting will be resumed at the Presbyterian Church, Market and King Sts., Wednesday evening according to the pastor, the Rev. W. H. Tilford. There were no mid-week services at the church during the vacation period.

MRS. GEORGE PILLSBURY NAMED LEGION AUXILIARY CHAPLAIN

Mrs. George N. Pillsbury, Treblein, has received notification of her appointment as state chaplain of the American Legion Auxiliary for the coming year. The appointment is effective immediately and was made by Mrs. J. Edward Johns, Massillon, state president of the auxiliary.

In her new office Mrs. Pillsbury will be in charge of all religious services in connection with the state convention of the auxiliary in Toledo in 1932. She will also officiate as chaplain at four district conferences to be held in the state between now and the time of the state convention. The first of these conferences is to be held at Massillon.

Mrs. Pillsbury has been an active member of the auxiliary of Joseph P. Foody Post, No. 95, and is first vice president of the organization at present. She served as president of the local group for three consecutive years and before that was secretary two years.

LEGION AUXILIARY WILL CAN FRUIT FOR NEEDY FAMILIES

Foody Post, American Legion Auxiliary, will do its share to help Xenia's needy by canning fruits and vegetables for distribution next winter.

Mrs. Charles L. Darlington Jr. heads a committee appointed at Monday night's Auxiliary meeting, which will undertake the canning project, starting Wednesday in the kitchen connected with the post hall, Court House.

Mrs. Edward Fall, Mrs. Emma G. McAlmont and Mrs. Frank Hustmyer are other members of the committee. Money from the Auxiliary treasury was appropriated to buy cans, sugar and other ingredients necessary. Donations of fruit or vegetables are being solicited. Members believe that because of the abundance of crops and low markets, that many with fruit or vegetables they cannot use or sell, will be willing to make donations. Peaches, apples, plums, pears, grapes, beans, beets or any vegetables suitable for canning, can be used. Donations of cans, mason jars or jelly glasses will also be acceptable.

Foody Post members will call for these donations if notified, Joe Spiro having been named chairman of a committee to collect either food or equipment. Anyone wishing to make donations may call Mrs. Darlington at 487-W, Commander Paul Fuller of Foody Post at 832-R or Mrs. Guy Toms, president of the Auxiliary, at 69-R. Donations of wearing apparel will also be accepted by the solicitors and turned over to the Red Cross.

When the food is preserved, it will be stored for distribution to needy families during the winter.

HEARD ON AIR

Mrs. Mary Bahns of near Bellbrook was a radio speaker Monday night over WEAQ the Ohio State University broadcasting station. Mrs. Bahns very ably handled her subject "A Farm Woman's Flower Garden." Her subject was well chosen because she efficiently manages her own flower garden. Mrs. Bahns is the first Greene County woman asked to broadcast over the Farm and Home Hour program sponsored by Ohio State University.

COUNTY THRESHING DELAYED BY RAINS

Recent wet weather, which interrupted threshing, is reported to have nearly ruined several hundred acres of wheat and oats in this locality, including parts of Greene County.

At least four days of good threshing weather will be required to complete harvesting in the northern part of the county, it was estimated by George DeWine, owner of the elevator at Yellow Springs. Wheat being purchased at this time is sold to a terminal elevator where it is kiln dried and used for feed. It is said that more than 150 acres of standing wheat in Greene and Clark Counties remains to be combined. The season has been unfavorable for use of the machine. Much of the grain still standing is lodged so close to the ground that cutting is a slow process.

IS RE-APPOINTED

The Rev. S. L. Brill, pastor of the United Brethren Church, W. Third St., will serve the local church another year, following his re-appointment at the annual meeting of the Miami conference of the U. B. Church in Germantown recently. The Rev. Mr. Brill has been pastor of the local church three years and came here from West Manchester, O., where he was pastor of a United Brethren Church.

CIGARET SMOKERS LAY IN STOCKS

NEARLY 20,000 cigaret tax stamps were sold at the county treasurer's office Monday and Tuesday to retail dealers in Greene County, the new cigaret law having become effective at midnight Monday.

Before the effective hour of the law was reached, however, cigaret smokers besieged places where cigarets are handled, scrambling to buy tax-free cartons in order to save a few cents while the saving was good.

Beginning Tuesday smokers began contributing to the state treasury at the rate of two cents for every pack containing twenty cigarets.

GOVERNOR REJECTS PLEA FOR PARDON

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Governor George White today rejected the application of Rocco Polichene, alleged king of the Ravenna underworld, for a pardon, and blasted all the latter's hopes to escape deportation.

Polichene was seeking executive clemency on a manslaughter charge in an attempt to be allowed to remain in this country. His deportation, recently ordered by federal authorities, was being held up pending the governor's action.

POSTPONE HEARING

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 1.—Complying with a request from counsel for the Interstate Truck Company, the State Utilities Commission today postponed from September 4 until October 6, at 10 a. m., its hearing relative to the company's application for an extension of its interstate truck route to Dayton, Troy, Xenia and Miamisburg.

MILL BARTERS FOR WHEAT WITH FLOUR

A practice popular many years ago—that of bartering wheat for flour—is being revived on an extensive scale this year at the Preston mill at Clifton, according to C. M. Preston, owner. An average of 3,000 pounds of wheat is being traded for flour every day. For one bushel of wheat, Mr. Preston gives from thirty to thirty-five pounds of flour, depending on the quality of the grain.

EAST END NEWS

MRS. JAMES HARRIS Correspondent 91-R

The First A. M. E. Church will stage a "Fall Festival" to begin September 22 and ending Sunday, September 27. Full particulars will be given later.

Mrs. Louella Crouse of Washington, D. C., is the guest of Mrs. Lucy Bramlette of E. Market St., for a few days. She is enroute home from a visit in Los Angeles, California and other cities.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

And it shall come to pass, that from one new moon to another, and from one sabbath to another, shall all flesh come to worship before me, saith the Lord.—Isaiah, lxvi, 23.

FRANK HARRIS

Frank Harris is dead at the age of 75, and with his passing goes another picturesque figure of the "greenery-gallery" '90s in London. In his editorial capacity Harris came to know all the prominent characters of that curious, esthetic decade. He must himself have been a strangely virile member of London's literary society in those carnation-scented days, with his background of Irish birth and adventuring in America where he had been successively a sand-hog, cowboy, Indian fighter, cattle rustler and friend of "Wild Bill" Hickok.

Whatever may be the individual opinion of Harris' own literary productions, however one regards the taste or estimates the value of books which brought him fame in one case, and notoriety in the other, it must be admitted that Harris had his own ideals of decency.

He needed money in his later years, but his attitude revealed a strength of character and a loyalty which cannot fail to inspire admiration. Among his possessions were first editions signed by outstanding literary men of his time, countless pages in the handwriting of Oscar Wilde, cases of letters from well-known contemporaries, sketches and pictures by famous artists. In his lifetime Harris might have purchased increased comfort, even luxury, with the proceeds from their sale. But Harris was Irish, and sentimental, too. He could not imagine a life in which these souvenirs of crowded years did not surround him. Furthermore, despite the suppression of one of his books on the ground of obscenity, his order that a private file of information on Wilde and Douglas be destroyed at his death is evidence that Harris did not choose to play the ghoul or seek posthumous notoriety.

Now that the man who gave George Bernard Shaw his first position as critic on the London Saturday Review is dead, however, the world of those who collect first editions and literary memorabilia will await with keen interest the disposal of Harris' treasures, representing a neat fortune in themselves, and one of which their owner had no disposition to take mercenary advantage.

LOVE FOR HOME COMMUNITY

A friend remarks that while visiting in a summer resort, he asked a young man in a garage what he did when winter came, and the summer visitor: "I'll go home." "I just stay on here. I love my own state. I have never been outside its boundaries. It is good enough for me," was the reply.

Some people may think that is a narrow spirit. And yet that young man can read all about every state and country in the world, and thus make himself intelligent. His affection for his home locality is something admirable. The people who have that feeling are not going to waste their days and hours in restless desire to wander, and in futile visions about golden opportunities in distant scenes.

We wonder how much Gandhi was influenced because he was afraid to wear clothes in London and afraid not to wear them.

There are still more men than women in this country, and don't the women let the world know that they are aware of it!

The trouble is, a lot of people who are going to wear Empress Eugenie hats do not look in the least like Eugenie.

If Smedley Butler allows himself to be dragged into politics he hasn't as much good sense as he has seemed to have.

WELCOME, A GALLANT SOLDIER

America will greet France's greatest survivor of the World war when General Henri Philippe Benoni Omer Joseph Petain arrives in October to attend the sesqui-centennial commemorating the battle of Yorktown on a field which has just been made a national shrine.

Clemenceau, Foch and Joffre are dead. Only the 75-year-old Petain is left of the four great men who spoke and fought for France in the war.

No man came out of the war with a more spectacular record nor one more brightly emblazoned with glory. An obscure colonel when hostilities were declared, he rose by rapid steps until he became commander-in-chief of the armies in the field and after the armistice the president of a grateful republic handed him the baton of a marshal of France.

Quickly elevated to the rank of general after the war started, Petain broke the Germans at Arras and if reserves had been at hand to carry forward the advantage he gained the story of the war might have been altered. He stopped the German crown prince's army at Arras and in doing so developed a new theory of tactics which became a textbook for the allied armies. His foresight developed a strategy which prevented the German from taking advantage of the Russian debacle.

All of these victories in the field, however, are not comparable to his accomplishments within the French army. Morale had been lowered at the place where sporadic mutinies were taking place. General Petain removed once and for all the causes of the defection. He found gross injustices in the granting of official leaves, a matter of grave importance to men fighting for months and years only a day's travel from their homes. He learned that there was marked variance in the supplies and comforts furnished to different units and that discrimination in advancement was widespread. He made it his business as commander-in-chief of the field armies to eradicate these causes of complaint and put into effect reforms which quickly restored confidence to the soldiers and gave the French army a new will to win.

America loves heroes and there is no more heroic figure in Europe than General Petain. Joffre of the Marne, Foch of the Somme and Petain of Verdun—all great names and of these the only survivor is coming to pay us a visit.

It will be a great day for America and a great one for a gallant soldier. — Portsmouth Times.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

VIENNA—A sense of unreality fogs Vienna. That tradition of waiters and dreamy grace created by a thousand plays and novels was not spun out of nothing. First glimpses of the Ringstrasse makes you know that Vienna is not going to relinquish without a struggle the mellowness she knew, and the gaiety and the charm, in the decade before the war.

I do not know how other Americans react to the way they are treated in Vienna. I had heard little one way or another before yesterday from any traveler. But everywhere here the tourist must be astonished and rendered almost bashful by the courtesy and kindness of the natives.

MILITANT AMERICANS

The word "tip"—cudgel in the hands of Frenchmen—seldom shatters the mild Viennese air. No matter what you give you are thanked and wished a pleasant journey. Last night a small, hawk-nosed gentleman with distinctly New Yorkish accents barged into the lobby of the Krantz Ambassador demanding that the manager check up the amount asked by the taxi driver outside. The manager demonstrated the fare was correct and went out with the American to pay. The cab was gone.

And the American, militantly determined not to be gypped, can scarcely be blamed. He has learned, traveling in Europe, to adopt an attitude more or less like that, or else be trimmed more roundly than the original visitor who bought Brooklyn Bridge from a stranger on the streets of New York. Annual trips to Europe make more patriots than all the government propaganda ever turned out in America. There are Americans who boast loudly and absurdly over here—but it may be that some of them have been slightly deranged by the high-pressure raiding of pocketbooks.

In Vienna, if there is any bleeding, it is done gracefully and under the anaesthetic of gentle music and good manners.

SHOPPER'S IMPRESSIONS

This is a paradise for women with a weakness for leather goods—pocketbooks, handbags, sewing cases and so on. Every other shopwindow is full of them, and the most expensive I saw on display was an ornate, silver-trimmed affair with modernistic markings at 200 schillings, or about $28.

Bookstores exist on every corner. In one block I counted twelve. The habit of browsing is so firmly entrenched here that it is often difficult to dig up a salesperson and pay for purchases. I became rather embarrassed for my countrymen when shown, by the ninth consecutive bookstore proprietor, a row of snappy magazines and collections of pictures of German nude cults immediately upon entering the shop. Of course, in each case I hurried indignantly and precipitately out.

"CAFE" MEANS JUST THAT

The sign "cafe" has here a thoroughly literal meaning. I discovered, after a number of experiments, that in a Viennese cafe it may be possible to buy a meal but very probably not. Coffee and beer are on tap but if you ask for a menu you are regarded quizzically.

"This is out a restaurant, sir," the headwaiter declares (in more hazy English than that). "It is only a cafe." And in every cafe there is a voluminous library. As soon as you sit down you are presented with a bale of current periodicals. American and English magazines are always on top of the pile, but Czechoslovakian, Hungarian and even Viennese publications are included, just in case. Imagine an Englishman entering a cafe and being handed a copy of Sketch!

THE ROUGH RIDER'S SUCCESSOR!

PROSPECT OF NEW JOBS WITH RETURN OF BEER IS BOON TO WET CAUSE

CHARLES F. STEWART

WASHINGTON—The prohibition question would not stand a ghost of a show if it had to compete with the hard times issue at the next session of congress.

The most ardent wets admit as much. They also are free to confess that they were growing decidedly discouraged until recently, at the fashion in which interest appeared to be waning in the modification campaign that they had hoped would be approached by the climax on Capitol Hill next winter. Not that they were counting on victory at the coming session, but they did look for a hot enough contest to make the wet-and-dry controversy bulk largely in the 1932 presidential fight.

That, however, was earlier in the season, before it had become so evident that no other subject can be invested with sufficient ginger to command serious consideration while the depression lasts.

YET NOW—

Behold the appeal for "good beer" being put forward as an unemployment relief suggestion!

And prohibition under attack as at least in part responsible for the industrial and agricultural crisis!

The strength of the pro-beer plea, in its application to the unemployment situation, lies in its promise (a wet promise, disputed by the dries, of course) of new jobs immediately for a large number of men.

Though it may be true, as the dries maintain, that the proposition's economics are faulty and will prove themselves to be so in the long run, it is hard to convince the average individual that the legalization of a popular beer would not be followed by the opening of a lot of breweries in short order or that the opening of a lot of breweries would not make work for a lot of hands.

What the dries say would happen ultimately is, after all, problematic.

What the wets say would happen at once (that 1,000,000 men or so would be needed to brew and deliver "real beer" and provide materials incidental to its production) is more ultimate.

When everyone had employment

than problematic! It sounds highly probable.

This labor argument is the spearhead of the wets' drive.

It has ten times the punch in it of all the Wickersham reports put together.

The Wickersham findings were dampish, to be sure. For example, the commission set down two-thirds of the cost of administering federal criminal justice to prohibition. It mentioned "unemployment and prohibitory laws" as the chief causes of crime. One of the reports blamed bootlegging influences for racketeering generally. Commissioner Henry W. Anderson referred bitterly to "undue and irritating restraints upon normal social and economic activities."

Nevertheless, the Wickersham board merely told its story; it promised nothing in particular.

Even promises such as Representative Coudens C. Dyer of Missouri makes, in his campaign for 4 per cent beer, are not of a sort to stir the rank and file of the country's voters to a frenzy of enthusiasm.

Legal "real beer," says Dyer, would yield a billion dollars yearly in federal revenue. Which would mean, presumably, an annual billion-dollar reduction in income taxation—an entrancing prospect, indisputably, to folk who pay income taxes, but, comparatively, there are not many of them.

And mass voters are required to modify prohibition.

A convincingly-made prediction that approximately 1,000,000 additional jobs will be thrown open and that 80,000,000 additional bushels of grain will be urgently needed directly upon "real beer's" legalization is calculated to make more wet converts, from among voters who may happen to have been idle for a winter or two, than assurances of any imaginable total of increased federal revenue.

When everyone had employment parents must stick by their guns occasionally. Fortunately, the child said nothing. She made no fuss. She must have felt quite miserable and quite alone in a world of callous enemies, but she sunk her small chin into two brown fists and huddled up on the back seat and stared gloomily out into the landscape while the others ate their cones and she chewed bitter thoughts.

perhaps it would not have been so cogent an appeal. Today it should be mighty effective, if believed in. The prohibition question will be subsidiary to the hard times issue certainly, but indications are that it is pretty securely hooked onto the latter. If so, the combination threatens to complicate matters for the dries very materially.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

By MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT
Jellied Meat Creamed Potatoes Green Pea Salad Sliced Peaches New England Cookies Tea
For a hot night jellied meat is especially nice, but it is delicious any night of the year. If the weather is cool a hot bouillon may be served previous to the meat course.

Today's Recipes
Molded Lamb Tongues—Cook lamb tongues until tender in hot water to which salt, a few celery seeds and one small onion have been added as seasonings. When done, cool; remove skin and slice and reserve the liquid in which cooked. Strain this liquid and for each pint add one tablespoon gelatin. Chill in a mold and pour in a little of the stock, add a layer of the sliced tongue, then more stock, and repeat until the meat is all used. The meat should be covered with stock. Allow several hours for the jelly to set. Then unmold.

Lamb in Mint Jelly—Cut fine bunch of mint, cover with oil and add sugar to taste. Let stand over night. Rub through a fine sieve and add two cups of white stock. Tint green with vegetable coloring. Add one-half package gelatin which has been soaked in cold water and dissolved in hot water. Add one tablespoon finely chopped mint leaves. Pour a thin layer of the jelly into a mold, cover with thin slices of roast lamb, let harden; repeat until the mold is full. Set away to chill. To serve: unmold, garnish with fresh mint leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

New England Cookies—Two cups brown sugar, one cup butter and one cup cold coffee, one cup raisins and nuts, one teaspoon soda dissolved in warm water, one teaspoon baking powder, two teaspoons syrup, three and one-half cups flour, two whole eggs. Mix same as for cake, cream sugar and butter, add coffee and syrup and egg yolks, mix well, add eggs and beaten stiff last. Spread thin in long pan and frost with powdered sugar and cream and cut in squares.

Ganned Vegetable Soup—The following vegetable soup may be added to soup stock to form the basis for a very nourishing, healthful part of the menu in winter: One-half bushel tomatoes (peel and cut in quarters), six carrots, twelve small onions, three green peppers, twelve ears corn, one quart string beans, one quart lima beans, one head cabbage, one teaspoon butter, mix well, add eggs and vegetables, cut them fine and boil together for two and one-half hours. Place in jars and seal.

Table Relish—Chop: Four quarts cabbage, two quarts tomatoes, (one quart green), six large onions, two hot peppers. Add: Two ounces white mustard seed, one ounce celery seed, one-fourth cup salt, two pounds brown sugar, two quarts vinegar. Simmer one hour. Pour into sterilized jars or bottles and seal while hot.

Health Expert Advises Inoculation

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Before your child enters school, I advise that preventive vaccination against smallpox and diphtheria be given. Typhoid fever preventive inoculation is not so important for the school child, because typhoid fever is not communicated from one infected person to another uninfected person. Smallpox and diphtheria are so communicated, and there being a distinct danger of spread in this way from school contacts, it is highly important that the school child should be protected against them by vaccination before entering school.

Typhoid fever prevention should, however, be given to every individual. It is true that hygienic control of the water supply has practically caused typhoid fever to disappear from the earth, but dependence on that is not always certain, and should be supplemented by individual typhoid prophylaxis. The method is harmless and certain, if properly performed. Children of five stand it better than adults.

Several years ago great hopes were entertained that immunity to scarlet fever could be given. This may come soon, and would be an enormous advantage, but the method as originally planned has not proved to be successful and cannot be wholeheartedly recommended. If any parent wishes to try it, it may be said that the scarlet fever preventive inoculation does no harm, but its results are too uncertain to allow of strong recommendation. If any immunity is conferred it is of short duration.

In the presence of an actual case of scarlet fever, however, the use of the antitoxin is advised.

Boy Finds Unkissable Girl

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Gather around me, girls, and listen while I read this letter from our old friend Andy, who declared that there were no unkissable girls and that he could kiss any girl within a week of the time he met her:

"Dear Miss Lee: I doubt if you remember a letter signed 'Andy,' saying that there are not any unkissable girls left, which brought a series of answering letters from the female sex saying there are.

"Well, girls, I take it all back with interest. A member of your sex has popped out of a clear sky to make me think different. You should see her, Virginia; she is the prettiest girl that I have ever seen. I met her at a dance six months ago. I take her to dances, shows, and give her a good time, for we are both young, and I see her four nights a week, and believe it or not, I have only kissed her good night since last June.

"I respect and love her, and we are to be married Christmas eve, her birthday. I still think I'm dreaming. So, girls, we fellows know how to treat a nice girl when we find one.

"Well, well, well and well, Andy, of course I remember you. Heartiest congratulations and best wishes, and all that sort of thing. You're a real sport to write and tell us all about it, and 'the prettiest girl' is to be congratulated, too.

Your letter will cheer all the unkissable girls and confirm them in their convictions that they should remain unkissable until Prince Right Man comes along to woo.

"Dear Miss Lee: I am a girl 19 years old and an only child. My parents are very strict with me. I have been going with a fellow for about eight months and like him very much. He told me he cared for me.

"About two months ago he got drunk and went away. Then he came back and I started to go with him again. He has started to drink hard again. What shall I do? I told him I did not care to see him.

"Eliz."

Continue to tell him that you do not care to see him and stick to it, Eliz. A fellow who drinks hard is no proper boy friend for a girl of your age.

Worried Blue Eyes: Why not stop worrying and take the boy friend's word that he loves you? If he was late to work I think he showed good sense not to stop. Jobs are lost by many persons who are always late, and it's not a good time to lose a job.

Worried Blue Eyes: Why not stop worrying and take the boy friend's word that he loves you? If he was late to work I think he showed good sense not to stop. Jobs are lost by many persons who are always late, and it's not a good time to lose a job.

"Dear Miss G.: Your Beauty Culture booklet has given me such great assistance to me in eradicating the blackheads and pimples that disfigured my skin during the past two years, that I have decided to ask you to send me in my one remaining problem. I certain sections, my skin has become very white and smooth, while the skin around these areas is much darker in color. I am quite worried about the condition, and would be glad if you could suggest a remedy.

"MRS. THEO G."

The condition you describe is, I am sorry to say, one that is practically impossible to remedy. This condition is known as Vitiligo, and is a defect in pigmentation. The pigment migrates from certain sections of the skin, leaving them very white and smooth in appearance, while the surrounding skin appears much darker in color. It is sometimes possible to bleach the dark skin lighter. But as yet, nothing has been found that will restore the normal color to the white portions. The only thing that I can suggest is that you procure a powder that matches the dark portions of skin, and blend it carefully over the white patches so that they do not appear noticeable.

All - Stars And Krippendorf Battle To Tie

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

Old-time baseball fans who can "remember way back when" will probably flock to Redland Field at Cincinnati next Saturday, September 5.

The attraction will not be so much a game between the Reds and Chicago Cubs, starting at 1:30 p. m., but a contest that will follow immediately between a collection of Cincinnati amateurs and veteran former major league stars who will be in Cincinnati to attend a reunion of old-time stars of the big league diamonds.

The round-up of the old-timers is being arranged by John L. Horgan, managing director of the Sinton-St. Nicholas Hotel. Horgan conceived the idea that it would prove a memorable occasion if he could bring together as many as possible of the vets and he has left no stone unturned in trying to do so.

Every former big leaguer—and there are plenty of them—whose addresses could be learned and who is known to be out of baseball, has been invited to attend and remain at the Cincinnati hotel as a guest for as long as he stays, in the city during the reunion. The same goes for the family of the veteran.

Among the stars of bygone days who will be on hand is Bob Beecher, who used to swipe sixty-five to eighty bases for the Reds every season and is the greatest base stealer the National League has known since 1900. Bob is living at his old home in London. Doubtless he is not as speedy on the paths as he once was, but he will probably try to steal at least one base next Saturday. When Beecher was in his prime he was really good. Frank Frisch, Hazen Cuyler and the others of today would have been slow-pokes compared with him.

Remember Bill Rariden, a catcher on the 1919 Red team which won the world's series? He will also be among those present. A group of his fellow townsmen from Bedford, Ind., will accompany him.

Another one of the really great Red pitchers of several decades ago who will be there is "Long" Bob Ewing. Bob has since served a few terms as sheriff of Auglaize County and has advised that he has gone into intensive training at his home in Wapakoneta so that he can do his stuff on the mound for a few innings.

Other recent acceptances have been received as follows: Buck Herzog, manager of the Reds in 1914, 1915 and part of 1916, one of the most colorful infielders baseball ever knew, who telephoned his acceptance from Baltimore; Bill Sweeney, a great infielder who played with the Boston Braves a score of years ago; Joe Benz, former White Sox hurler; George Rohe, White Sox infielder and a hero of the 1906 world's series; Will Irwin, Chick Smith, Larry Kopf, William James, Cy Young and Tacks Latimer.

Many letters which he will prize highly to his dying day are being received by Mr. Horgan, who is fostering the reunion. A typical one received from Mrs. Bob Ewing said in part:

"Bob was so proud of that invitation he carried it around in his pocket to show all his friends. He will treasure it and keep it along with the one of the Golden Jubilee of several years ago in our baseball scrapbook which we are saving for our youngster, Robert Hunter Ewing, whose initials, R. H. E., stand for Runs, Hits and Errors. "Bob is looking forward to pitching on the big day and started in training August 16. I shall do my part in the cooking and dieting to keep him in trim. I know we all will be proud to see Long Bob, the Reds' premier pitcher of 1905 (the year we were married) on the mound. I hope to be among those present and see if I get the same thrill as of yore."

Ewing pitched twenty of his club's seventy-nine victories in 1905 and lost only eleven games that year.

A dinner at the hotel for the old-timers on the evening of the game will be open to the public at $1 a plate. Tickets may be procured at the Sinton, Redland Field and various business stores in Cincinnati.

ADOPT SCHEDULE FOR BOWLING LOOP

Schedule for the first week of the opening round of play was adopted at another meeting of Recreation League bowlers at the Recreation Parlor Monday night.

The six-team league which now lacks one member will be rounded out by the selection of a sixth entry, the personnel of which is expected to be selected by Morris Sharp, proprietor. This unnamed entry will meet the Red Wings in the inaugural match of the league season Tuesday night next week.

Matches in the league, according to present plans, will be rolled on Tuesday, Thursday and Friday nights each week, leaving Monday and Wednesday night open. The Business Men's League will bowl on Wednesday evenings.

GAME CALLED DRAW WHEN ACCIDENT AND DARKNESS COMBINE

Runner And Baseman Collide; Shoemakers Leading At Time

Literally speaking, a "head-on" collision was responsible for the fact that by mutual agreement of the two teams the opener of a three-game play-off series between the All-Stars and Krippendorf to decide the American League softball title was declared a drawn contest after seven innings of play at Cox Field Monday night.

Here is what happened. In the Krippendorf half of the seventh inning, Ernst singled with one down and was forced at second by Bob Luttrell, the team's pitcher. Gultice grounded to second base and the ball was tossed to second, forcing Luttrell for the third out of the stanza.

Luttrell, however, collided with Shortstop Marvin Putnam just before Marvin touched the bag and both players fell to the ground. Luttrell suffered a jagged cut over the left eye and Luttrell, who was stunned momentarily, also sustained a cut over one eye.

Time was called and by the time the injured players had recovered to the extent play could have been resumed, darkness had enveloped the field and the umpires, after consulting with the team captain, called the whole thing off.

Krippendorf, defending league champion, was leading the All-Stars by a score of 7 to 6 at the time. The teams will clash again Tuesday night in what may again be termed the "series opener."

Possibly somewhat nervous, the two teams staged an exciting game for seven innings despite the fact that the defensive play was ragged to say the least. The All-Stars were charged with eight errors and Krippendorf made six miscues.

Russ Kimber and Bob Luttrell, the rival pitchers, were not hit particularly hard. Kimber allowing seven hits and Luttrell permitting six. Burton, Krippendorf first baseman, with a home run and single, was the only player on either team to hit safely more than once.

The high spot of the affair was probably a bit of daring base running by Blackburn, All-Star short fielder, in the fourth. Blackburn stretched an ordinary single into a double, then stole third and scored on a fly to deep left. This was the first All-Star run of the contest and evened the score for the time being since two errors and a fly had permitted Krippendorf to tally a marker in the third. The shoemakers added two in the fourth on an error and Burton's homer to left center. In the fifth the All-Stars rallied to score five times on four hits and three errors, but the three-run advantage accruing was short-lived, Krippendorf scoring four runs in the sixth on three hits and two errors.

The boys will be out there again Tuesday night striving to win the first game and gain an edge on the series. Lineups:

GRIDDERS ANSWER FIRST CALL FOR PRACTICE

Concrete evidence that Xenia Central's football campaign is near was furnished Tuesday morning when twenty-eight candidates for the Buccaneer grid squad reported for the first practice.

The number responding to the first call was not nearly as great as last year, but the squad is expected to increase daily in size. The fact the school term does not commence for two more weeks makes it difficult to round up all potential candidates ahead of time.

Among the few lettermen on hand for the initial workout were Andy Frazer, Howard Thompson, William Wagner, "Mo" Hyman and Freddie Dalton.

Light equipment was issued the players and for two hours the gridders cavorted about Cox Athletic Field, indulging entirely in exercises designed to limber up stiff joints. Fundamentals, including passing, running down the field under punts, charging and the like were stressed.

Another session is scheduled for 9 o'clock Wednesday morning. The first two weeks of drill will be devoted to about everything in the football category except scrimmaging.

RAY HENLEY PLACES SECOND IN STAKE PACING EVENT AT FAIR

Apparently suffering a relapse after his record-breaking three-heat performance at London last week, Ray Henley, Greene County-owned pacer, was defeated in the 2:13 pace, the Deshler-Wallick Hotel stake event worth $1,200, on the opening day's harness racing card at the Ohio State Fair Monday.

Piloted by Joe Hagler, this city, the pacer was beaten by Peter Nutonia, owned by H. H. Arbogast, Bellefontaine.

Peter Nutonia won the first heat in 2:05 with Ray Henley second.

RATE EMMETT TUHEY FAVORITE IN CADDY GOLF TOURNAMENT

Emmett Tuhey, 17, defending 1930 champion, led the qualifying round of eighteen holes and became an almost prohibitive favorite to retain the title as the annual caddy golf tournament began over the Xenia Country Club's nine-hole course Monday.

The tourney is in charge of Pat Gillespie, caddyman.

He toured the course twice to post a score of 85 for the two rounds. One stroke behind was Donald Smith while Ralph Bicking was third, only two strokes behind the leader.

Sixteen caddies ranging from 9 to 17 years of age entered the competition and all but two qualified for the first round of the match play scheduled to commence Tuesday.

The eight entrants who turned in the lowest scores were placed in the first or championship flight, and the next eight comprise the second flight.

Charles Babb with 130 and LeRoy Shelly with 131 were the two caddies who did not qualify.

Pairings for the first round of elimination play were being completed early Tuesday. The four survivors in each flight will meet in the semi-finals Wednesday and the finals are scheduled for Friday.

Prizes will be awarded winners and runners-up in each flight and a banquet for all the caddies is tentatively planned for one night next week.

The winner of the first flight will be recognized as the club champion.

Personnel of the two flights and the scores the sixteen caddies turned in for the qualifying round Monday follow:

First flight—Emmett Tuhey, 85; Donald Smith, 86; Ralph Bicking, 87; Charles Weiss, 89; Charles Jenkins, 92; Charles Brown, 94; Wilbur Acton, 95; Guido Pesavento, 99.

Second flight—Albert LaMar 101; Vinson Martin, 101; James Acton, 102; George Bicking, 103; Carl Acton, 106; James Blangy, 109; Clarence Walsh, 116; Raymond Fuller, 117.

The Theater

Despite his recent elevation to stardom, it is understood that Paul Lukas will play opposite Ruth Chatterton in "Tomorrow and Tomorrow."

If Ruth actually goes to Warner's, and things point that way, the Philip Barry play will be her last for Paramount. There is a remote chance she may remain at that studio.

Dick Wallace will direct "Tomorrow and Tomorrow." Lukas is slated for stardom in "The Beloved Bachelor," Paramount's new name for "The Prince Chap."

In the absence of Lola Lane, who couldn't wait for the new version, Ann Dryorak is likely to play the lead in the Howard

CAROLE LOMBARD

Hughes air comedy, "Sky Devils." This young actress is under contract to Metro but is getting her first big role in Hughes' "Scarface."

Wise producers shift their plans as the wind blows. Consequently Charles Rogers of RKO-Pathe has arranged to give Helen Twelvetrees a melodrama for her next starring picture. It will be "The Second Shot," an original by Garret Fort, with a Central American and African background.

The story called "Breach of Promise," previously named for Helen, will be postponed. The public is said to be calling for another Twelvetrees picture on the order of "Her Man."

A wreath from Pola Negri was about the extent of flowers sent from the film colony on the fifth anniversary of the death of Rudolph Valentino. His body still lies in the borrowed crypt of June Mathis. The proposed mausoleum never materialized.

Tod Browning is busy on the Metro lot preparing a mystery story to feature Lionel Barrymore his first picture under his new contract.

The third important role in "Private Lives" will be played by Reginald Denny. Norma Shearer will star in the film and Robert Montgomery plays opposite her. Jean Hersholt is also in the cast.

Hot news flashes: Due to continued illness, Carole Lombard is out of the cast of "The Greeks Had a Word for It" after rehearsing ten days. A successor is being sought. Nancy Carroll's argument with Paramount is settled and she will play the feminine lead in Ernst Lubitsch's new picture, "The Man I Killed." "Too censorable" is the verdict of Paramount on Emile Zola's "Nana." Instead Dietrich will star in "Shanghai Express," a melodrama by Harry Hervey, author of "Congal."

CLUB MEMBERS WILL DEMONSTRATE WORK DURING STATE FAIR

Greene County Boys' and Girls' Clubs will be represented by six boys and four girls at Ohio State Fair this week in the individual and team demonstrations and dairy judging teams, according to County Agent E. A. Drake.

Miss Jeanette Armstrong of Bath Twp. will appear in the state style revue Wednesday. Miss Betty Tobias and Miss Nancy Luse of the T. N. T. Club of Clifton will represent the county in the home economics team demonstration. They will demonstrate lines and colors. The individual demonstrator will be represented by Eleanor Cooley of Cedarville, whose subject will be "The Making and Use of Bias Bindings."

The Greene County Dairy Judging Team is composed of Walter Linton, Paintersville, Charles Thomas, New Jasper and Malcolm Finney, Cedarville. The team will compete Tuesday morning and will be required to place and write reasons for placing a ring of cows or heifers, for each of the four dairy breeds.

The Livestock Demonstration Team is composed of Charles Leach and Donald Glass of the Jamestown Busy Workers Pig Club. They will demonstrate "The Feeding of Wheat to Hogs."

The Livestock Individual Demonstrator is Donald Foster of the Xenia Future Farmers Club who will demonstrate "Culling Poultry."

WILL DISCONTINUE MOTOR TRUCK ROUTE

The state utilities commission Monday authorized the Cincinnati and Lake Erie Motor Transportation Co. to discontinue temporarily service between Xenia and London and between Toledo and the Ohio-Michigan state line on the Toledo-Detroit highway.

Due to a practically negligible traffic, the company declared it was losing money operating over these routes.

The company was directed by the commission to give ten days' notice in case it desired to renew operations.

Bluebeard Victim

Mrs. Aste Buick Eicher (above), who was, with her three children, slain by Cornelius Pierson, alias Harry F. Powers, according to his confession, and buried in shallow graves near his home at Clarksburg, W. Va. Police are searching for more bodies following the finding of many love letters to Pierson from women all over the country.
